Dover, Sept. 4, 1876.

At half past six o'clock this morning the Jameson Guards had the members of Post 116 G. A. R. meet at their respective halls, and a little past seven, headed by the Bangor Cornet Band and the Bangor Drum Corps, marched to the Bangor House, where they received Gen. J. C. Hamlin, Department Commander of the Department of Maine, G. A. R., and staff, and the Deputies, officers from the steamer Cleveland, who are visiting our city, and who, on invitation of Commander Hamlin visited the steamer on its arrival, and escorted them to the B. & K. House, and at 8.30 o'clock the whole procession moved to the depot of the Maine Central Railroad, where the train was in waiting to convey the battalion to Dover. The train left Bangor at 9.30 o'clock, and arrived at Dover at 11.30 o'clock, where the battalion was met by Governor Garcelon and staff, Adjutant General Hodsdon and staff, Quartermaster General Hall and staff, Surgeon General Mayo and staff, Gen. Wm. Gilman, Gen. Geo. Varney, Gen. Geo. Shepley, Gen. Geo. Berry, Gen. Geo. Bradbury, Gen. Geo. Libby, Gen. Geo. Beal, Gen. Geo. Wentworth, Gen. Geo. Hamlin, Gen. Geo. Boynton, Gen. Geo. Brown

The Bangor Republican Caucus To-Night!

We think no special appeal is needed to insure a full assemblage of the Republican voters of Bangor at City Hall this evening to select our candidates for Representatives to the Legislature. The combined opposition of Democrats, Greenbackers and Straddlers made a most conspicuous failure in their effort to get up a demonstration yesterday, and it remains for the Republicans to show a caucus adequately representing the moral and material, mercantile, mechanical, agricultural and other industrial interests of our community. This is a time when the Republicans of Bangor should come out in full force, and demonstrate in their preliminary meeting the determination they feel to select and to elect Republican Representatives for this city.

Never was the call to duty more clearly sounded in the ears, or more plainly set before the eyes of every good citizen than by what is transpiring around us to-day. Never could an irresistible impulse be more desirably given to a good cause, than by a grand manifestation of Republican earnestness and strength at the general caucus this evening.

The combined opposition, after weeks of secret fuglling and haggling, have utterly failed to produce anything like a popular demonstration in favor of their cut-and-dried scheme, and they have no hope of electing their patch-work ticket, if the Republicans arise in their might. The assumption of the one or two hundred persons drummed together yesterday, to speak for and as "the tax-payers" of Bangor, demands an answer by the sturdy citizenship of this community to-night, and we hope to hear it given in ringing and unmistakable tones.

Let us come together in solid array and select candidates who will honor our State, our city and our party. Let us select candidates who enjoy the respect and confidence of the community. Let us select tax-payers who will not be confounded by public evidence of their evasion of their share of the public burdens. Let us select men whose title as honest tax-payers is borne upon the Assessors' books. Let us select men in whose integrity and economy all our citizens can trust. Let us select candidates who will serve the people and for their individual spites and ambitions. Let us select men not ashamed to adhere to the principles of the party which is the guardian of the national honor or to-day as it has been its champion and defender in the past. Let us select men who know which side they are on, in the struggle between right and wrong honesty and dishonesty, law and revolution. Let us select men who can stand together with self-respect and cooperate without stultification. Let us select men who respect themselves and each other and who will command the respect of the community.

This the Republicans of Bangor can do, and we look for them to do it to-night. Let us have a grand gathering of the tried and true men of our city, and unite upon a ticket that shall be invincible. The enemy are already demoralized, and the rising of the Republicans in their might will overwhelm them. Let us organize victory at City Hall to-night! Every true citizen to the front!

A LOUD BARK OVER VERY SMALL GAME.

The Bangor Commercial last evening attempted a tremendous sensation, heading a column with display type "Republican mode of Electioneering—How THE WHIG AND COURIER collect their bills—Coercion the order of the day—A Specimen Letter,—Our Genial Neighbor's opinion of all Greenbackers." Under this ponderous placarding, it proceeds to state that a friend of the person to whom it was addressed has sent to the Commercial for publication a letter which it prints as follows:

BANGOR, Aug. 16, 1878.

MR. WASHBURN.

Dear Sir: Enclosed we hand you a bill for foreclosure, which has been in our books more than a year and a half and ought to have been paid long ago. We hope you have not joined the Greenbackers; for if you have we shall never look for our pay as we have failed thus far of collecting a cent from one of that party. They don't intend to pay their bills. That is part of their platform. Please let us know if we are to have pay or not.

Yes. Yours,

BOUTELLE & BURR,
By KERR.

And Mr. Marcellus Emery has the laefable meanness and dishonesty to dilate and sensationalize in charging upon "the Editors and Publishers" of this paper, upon "Captain Boutelle, the member of the Republican State Committee," the authorship of that silly and utterly unauthorized letter of a clerk in the counting room of this office, which was never seen or thought of by either of the proprietors until it was printed last evening. The man who would thus seek to pervert, to the injury of others, the unsuspected folly of an employe, shows himself as malicious and rascally as the letter was stupid. Marcellus Emery knows—any sane person would know—that such an unbusiness-like and inexcusable letter would never be knowingly permitted by the proprietors to go out from any business establishment, and he charged that letter upon the "Editors" of this paper with the evidence before him that we had nothing to do with it.

It is bad enough to have mortification thus brought upon us, by the inexplicable folly of an employe, expressly charged to confine himself strictly to business and to be scrupulous y courteous in all communications, without having a contemptible newspaper seek to make political capital out of it.

It seems that a man living some twenty miles from this city caused to be inserted in this paper, more than a year and a half ago, a notice of a foreclosure of a mortgage by him; without paying for its insertion, or even the registrat on fee which was paid by th e office. Bills have repeatedly been sent to the party requesting payment without response, up to this date, and last month, the person employed to keep the books wrote another letter, the contents of which were utterly unknown and undreamed of by us until now.

While this paper is always outspoken and pronounced in its political views, and while it aims to influence political action by argument, the fearless expression of opinion, and the presentation of facts bearing upon political topics, we have never sought or thought in any way to undertake to mix politics with our business; as we hold that while our paper is a medium through which our patrons may bring their business to the notice of the public, the politics of advertisers is a matter with which the business department of our establishment has no concern, and that any attempt to intrude it therein would be entirely impertinent. We, therefore, wholly disclaim all knowledge of or accountability for any attempt to introduce the question of a man's politics into our business relations; and the statement that we have never been able to collect a cent from a Greenbacker is also unauthorized and unwarranted, as we have never considered the political status of our patrons in relation to our accounts.

Mr. Emery has had the small satisfaction of thrusting an annoyance upon us in a very contemptible way, and we think that the intelligent public will fully appreciate all the bono and dignity that there is in his performance.

AN ATROCIOUS SENTIMENT.

George W. Ladd accepting the Greenback nomination.]

You see two men walking along the street; one is a rich bondholder and the other a ragged tramp. The rich man enters the front door of his fine dwelling; the tramp goes in at the back door, demands food or clothing, and if it is not given to him, He Steals it. And I tell you, That Tramp is More Entitled To Honor than the rich man who sits in his luxurious Parlor.

THE MAINE REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

When high ground is chosen, it is easy to make a good fight. The Maine Republicans have secured a commanding position by entrenching themselves on the heights of honest money and public faith, and their prospects in the canvass, which will close next week, are all they could hope for. The Republicans are not afraid to call a spade a spade. They regard the tendencies of the Greet back party as revolutionary, and in their closing address they say as much; and what is more they have the documentary evidence at hand to prove it. The only way in which a political movement of so low an order can be overcome is to face it and argue it down without yielding an inch of ground. A compromise with ignorance is always a dangerous experiment. He who sups with the Devil must have a long spoon.

REVISING THE VOTING LISTS.

The work of revising the voting lists is now in progress and it is important that every Republican ascertain that his name is properly entered on the list of his ward, and also that any errors in other names known to him be corrected. Information of names omitted or improperly entered should be promptly given to the City Committee, in order that correction be made.

THE PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.

[From the New York Tribune.]

For the first time since legal tender notes were issued, the United States Treasury holds and owns specie exceeding 50 per cent of its coin liabilities. The debt statement of August 31 shows that the Treasury has on hand, in excess of the amount covered by certificates of deposit, $194,402,850.67 in specie, an increase of $33,020,037.38 during the month of August. The entire amount of called bonds outstanding and other debt on which interest has ceased, is $11,973,650.26, an increase of $2,864,010 during the month. The entire amount of interest due and accrued to date but not yet due, including $70,000 due in currency on navy fund, is $27,800,017.25, an increase of $1,711,674.21 during the month. Besides these amounts, the Treasury has outstanding $346,745,250 in legal-tender and old demand notes. Thus we have, as the total coin indebtedness of the Treasury, exclusive of certificates of deposit, $386,607,833, and of this sum the $194,402,854.67 in specie owned by the Treasury is 50.3 per cent. At the beginning of August, upon the same basis of comparison, the Treasury owned $101,376,822.49 in specie, to meet coin liabilities of $381,932,166.04, or 42.8 per cent.

Of course it will be understood that the great increase of specie in the Treasury is mainly due to sales of four per cent bonds, against which calls for six per cents have been made; but the bonds thus called do not yet appear in the specie liabilities, because the calls have not yet matured. The increase in four per cent bonds outstanding during the month of August was $20,000,000, and the increase of specie on hand was only $4,026,037.08 larger. If the unmatured calls are included as a present coin liability, the proportion of specie owned to coin liabilities is less than 50 per cent. But there are three other considerations, to be taken into account.

First, the sales of four per cent. bonds continue very large, and there is now no reason to apprehend that they will diminish during the four months which remain before the date of formal resumption. With new supplies of specie flowing in, as fast as coin goes out in payment on maturing calls for six per cent. bonds, it is evident that the Treasury virtually has at command at all times a specie fund nearly corresponding to the excess of new subscriptions over called bonds deposited as securities by bankers engaged in negotiating the new bonds. How large that excess may be is not definitely known. But, second, the Treasury has in its vaults a very large amount of the legal tender notes, technically outstanding. The currency balance, August 31, was $15,129,171.97, an increase of $1,028,854.39 during the month, and this sum, at least must be deducted from the specie liabilities. Moreover the Treasury holds in various funds which cannot be materially diminished, a still larger amount of legal tenders, which cannot actually be presented for redemption, and therefore must be deducted from specie liabilities. And, finally, a large part of the interest accrued must at any time be only accrued but not yet due, so that the corresponding amount of specie is free for use in any emergency. The amount accrued, but not yet due, included in the above interest statement, is $17,978,530.70.

It will be noticed that the fractional currency outstanding has not been mentioned as part of the specie liability. The amount is nominally $16,351,728.10, but the redemption goes on very slowly, and at a fast diminishing ratio, only $103,870.07 having been redeemed last month. Those who have examined the subject most closely are of the opinion that much more than $10,000,000, and probably nearly $15,000,000 of the fractional notes has been lost or destroyed, so that it can never appear for redemption. In any case, the amount yet to be redeemed is insignificant, and the notes may be expected to come in at a rate not exceeding $100,000 per month, the item is not worth considering in connection with the preparations for resumption.

In every respect the debt statement is very satisfactory. The decrease of $6,475,504.74 in the debt less cash during the month of August is the more encouraging because it is known that large amounts were paid out just before the end of the month, to meet currency and coin obligations on the 1st of September, and but for these payments the balance would be still larger. The internal revenue receipts were much larger during the latter part of August than was expected, and the gradual increase of imports gives hope that the coin receipts from customs may hereafter increase. With available specie amounting to more than 50 per cent of its coin liabilities, the Treasury is surely in safe condition to adopt more vigorous measures than have yet been taken for the restoration of its notes to par value.

It is reported anew that Secretary Sherman will not much longer delay free payments of gold. He is in position to know, better than the public, what his opportunities are; he has the highest possible persona. interests in the success of his plans for resumption; and he has a right to ask, and from reasonable men will receive, the utmost confidence in his selection of means to the end desired. Whether the effort to put silver coins into circulation was designed to satisfy the minds of others, or to resolve a doubt in his own mind, the experiment has certainly proved that nothing can be done in that direction without withdrawal of small notes. On the other hand, it does not seem possible to doubt the prepayment of gold instead of legal-tenders would quickly convince the public that the notes of the Government are at least really worth as much as the coin which they promise. Now that the uncertainties attending the repeal of the Bankrupt Act are out of the way, we believe that prompt and vigorous action by the Treasury would give great confidence to business, and hasten the genuine and healthy revival for which all are longing.

All our advices from up-river are highly encouraging. The Republican strength increasing hourly, and our friends full of earnestness and enthusiasm.

The statement in the Commercial about the canvass in the town of Sherman is utterly false, and a sample of its political bluster. We have advices directly from there that Mr. Powers will have as large a majority as before.

TEMPERANCE.

Convention of the Reform Club at Norombega—Second Day's Proceedings.

Rev. J. Boyd, conducted a praise and prayer meeting, lasting one hour, previous to the opening of the Convention.

The Convention was called to order by President Merry, at 10 A. M., the opening exercises consisted of singing by the choir and congregation, prayer by Rev. Mr. Boyd, and singing.

Several additional clubs were reported, and a number of Vice Presidents were added to the Convention.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows:

Whereas—The twelfth quarterly convention of Reform Clubs of Maine, convened in Bangor Sept. 4th and 5th, 1878, desiring to continue the organization in its original character, to save their fellow men from the evils of intemperance, be it therefore

Resolved, That, remembering the great good already done, we reaffirm as the cardinal points of our order, that we are, as an organization, non-sectarian, non-political and non-prosecuting.

Resolved, That in the Women's Crusade, the "Allied Societies, and kindred organizations of the State, we recognize a power for good, in the great work, second only to the hand of God himself.

Resolved, That this Convention tender to the clergymen of the city of Bangor its warmest thanks for the interest they have manifested for the success of this convention.

Resolved, That to those clergymen who have come from a distance to lend a helping hand to carry on this cause, we are under great obligation for the valuable services they have rendered.

Resolved, That we extend the right hand of fellowship to all temperance organizations, of whatever name or nature, engaged in the good work of elevating humanity and bid them God speed in the cause so dear to us.

Resolved, That to the citizens of Bangor we owe much for the kind and generous hospitality shown to us during our stay with them; and the prayer of this convention is, that the "Queen City of the East" may be the people it of the obdest and richest of heaven's blessings, and may a kind providence hasten the day when rum and all its attendant evils shall be banished from its beautiful territory.

Resolved, That the thanks of this convention are warmly extended to the choir that have discoursed such fine music; and to the lady organist who, having made the sacrifice that she has, to be present with us, we are under great obligation.

Resolved, That we extend our thanks to the Press of Maine for their generosity in publishing the notices connected with the reform movement in this State; also to the railroad and steamboat companies for the liberality in the reduction of fares over their respective routes.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this convent on the best interests of the reform work of this State will be better promoted by holding our State convention semi-annual y; and that we recommend to our brothers of the different counties to hold quarterly conventions in their respective counties.

The resolutions were severally adopted.

The committee to select a State committee reported as follows:

Androscoggin—E. H. Horr, Lewiston.
Aroostook—J.Z. Swanton, Houlton.
Cumberland—G. W. Murch, Portland.
Franklin—Josiah Emery, Farmington.
Hancock—A. H. Gonn, Bucksport.
Kennebec—E. S. Keller, Winthrop.
Knox—Edward Hills, Thomaston.
Lincoln—J. P. Glidden, Waldoboro.
Oxford—J. F. Stanley, Paris.
Penobscot—S. L. Stevens, Bangor.
Piscataquis—Lucien French, Sangerville.
Sagadahoc—Charles Roberts, Bath.
Somerset—Frank Kenrick, Fairfield.
Waldo—W. M. Thayer, Searsmont.
York—D. P. Wiggin, Saco.

The committee made choice of the following officers: President, Frank Kenrick of Fairfield; Secretary, A. H. Genn, Bucksport; Treasurer, G. W. Murch, Portland.

The convention voted to hold its next session in Brunswick the first Wednesday and Thursday in March 1879.

Adjourned to afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

President Merry in the chair. The convention opened by singing "Sweet by and by," with Mrs. Davenport at the organ. Dirlyse Blessing was invoked by Rev. Mr. Bolton. All lady temperance workers were invited to seats upon the stage.

The chair limited the speeches to five minutes each, and the following reformers addressed the convention: Hutchins, of No Anson, Webb, of Skowhegan, Kenrick, of Fairfield, Elder, of Portland, Thayer, of Searsmont, Stevens, of Bangor; Dearing, of Knightville, Spratt, of Clinton, Ware, of Bucksport, Thomas, of Gardiner, Freeman, of Brunswick, Buffum, of Gardiner, Eustis of Dixfield, Mrs. Crossman and Mrs. Pickard of the Women's Crusade, also happily responded to invitations to address the meeting.

Additional signatures to the pledge were obtained. The meeting closed with singing.

A prayer meeting was held from 6½ to 7½ P. M., conducted by Mr. C. as. Freeman of East Brunswick club.

EVENING SESSION.

The Convention opened at 7½ P. M. with President Merry in the chair. The exercises commenced with singing "Fire from the wine cup," by Messrs. Holden, Bean, Barker and Hannaby. Devotional services by Rev. Mr Fay, of Hammond st church. Solo, "Hear us O Father, by Miss Helen A. Osgood, Mrs. Youmans, of Picton, Province Ontario, at this point ascended to the platform amidst applause.

The chair limited the speeches of the evening to five minutes each and the following reformers made remarks full of truth and candor: Eustis of Dixfield, Murch of Portland, Kenrick of Fairfield, Montgomery of Bangor, McFarland of Bangor, Richardson of Clinton, Knapp of Norwny, Seavey of Bangor, Berry of Brunswick, Genn of Bucksport, and Kelley of Winthrop. Mrs. Lane, President of W. T. C. U. of Bangor, made an excellent effort, and Mrs. Youmans delivered a splendid address, which drew from the large audience frequent applause.

During the exercises Mrs. B. C. Torsey, of Winthrop, beautifully sung "Stay not out to-night, dear brother," and Messrs. Holden and Hasey rendered a duett which was received with deafening applause. At the close of the meeting, 10.30, several signatures were added to the pledge.

MAINE NEWS.

FROM PORTLAND.

The Executive Council of the National Board of Trade.

PORTLAND, Sept. 5. The Executive council of the National Board of trade closed their two days session at noon to-day. Members were in attendance from Boston, Toledo, Chicago, Milwaukee, New York, Philadelphia, Portland, Providence and Detroit. The Council has decided not to call a meeting of the Board immediately but will hold a session in Washington early in December for the purpose of pressing upon the attention of Congress and Executive the action taken by the Board at Milwaukee and previous meetings, looking to the extension of our trade with foreign countries, to the negotiation of commercial treaties, to the revisal of American tonnage interests; restoration and maintenance of currency on a coin basis. The Presidents of all constituent Boards are invited to the Washington meetings. All wish to acknowledge the bountiful hospitality of the Portland Board of trade.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Rousing Rallies in Rockland.

ROCKLAND, ME., Sept. 5. At a Republican rally this afternoon, Gen. James A. Garfield, of Ohio, addressed a large audience in Post Office Square, giving a very able address on the financial question. Mr. Francis Cobb presided, and the Singhi Band furnished music. This evening, a rail meeting at Pillsbury Hall was addressed by Gen. Davis Tillson, of this city, and S. L. Phillips, Esq., of Belfast.

The Belfast Republicans' Nominee.

BELFAST, Me., Sept. 5. At a Republican and honest money caucus this evening, Dr. John G. Brooks was nominated for Representative. He was a Senator in 1873 and Mayor of the city the two following years.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

VERMONT.

The Bauuce Republican County.

BENNINGTON, Sept. 5. Full returns from Bennington County give the State ticket 881 Republican majority, an increase of 170 over 1875. In this county the Republicans elect the clean ticket, and make a gain of two Representatives to the General Assembly. Col. Joyce, member of Congress from the First District, will have a majority more than one thousand majority in Bennington County.

NEW YORK CITY.

The Horse car Men's Strike.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. The strike of horse car men took place this morning. A few cars are running on 6th and 3d avenues with police on the platforms. Rioting is reported at 23d street, some men being injured. The Second avenue line has given in to the strikers' demand for two dollars per day.

Riots on the Political Situation.

The Tribune publishes an interview with Kasson in which he says he thinks the Republicans will carry the Assembly, and gain Congressmen in New York State, as the tendency of affairs in the party there is now toward united action. He thinks Tilden's prospects for a renomination very poor. Grant's name is one of great popularity in this country, and will continue to be so; but it depends on the events of the next two years whether he will be a name of importance again as the standard bearer of any party.

NEW YORK STATE.

Republican State Convention Called.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. The Republican State Committee have decided to call a State Convention at Saratoga, Thursday, Sept. 26th.

THE YELLOW FEVER.

No Home in Granada Exempt.

GRENADA, Sept. 5. The situation is heart-rending. There were eight deaths yesterday. Dr. Ringgold and D. Cook, daughter of the Howards, are attacked. About twelve new cases have developed.—There no longer remains a house in Grenada not visited by the destroyer. The widow of Col. Anderson is stricken at Hernando.

A Strange Prophecy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. A New Orleans dispatch says that the fever recalls a curious prophecy of a Negro Voudo Sorcerer last New Year's, that a plague would come upon the city equally fatal to whites and blacks, and increase until the number of deaths equalled the degrees of the thermometer when it would decline. The coincidence in the death rate and thermometer has existed the past three days, and the Negroes are rejoicing, believing that the climax has been reached.

No Cases at Pensacola.

PENSACOLA, FLA., Sept. 5. No case of yellow fever has occurred this year in Pensacola or at quarantine.

The Terrible Plague in Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 5. The Undertakers' report says there were 46 yellow fever interments up to noon to-day. Mother Antoinette, Superior of St. Agnes' Academy, is dying. Geo. W. T. Croak, a prominent worker in the Odd Fellows' Committee, died this forenoon. The Waltham Home on Market-st., under charge of Waltham, of Mobile, has about 30 patients and the number is increasing hourly. Dr. Dowell of Galveston is physician in charge. The undertaker this forenoon reports a falling off in applications for burial of paupers. A. J. Wheeler, Secretary of the Masonic relief board, is sick. Brother Amandis of Franciscan charge, is dead.

Cases in Baton Rouge.

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 5. The fever cases to date are 163; deaths 15; taken sick during the last 12 hours 10; Dr. Dupree states that many cases are so mild in character that physicians declined to report them.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Coal Mines Flooded.

SCRANTON, Sept. 5. A storm Tuesday flooded the Fairlawn and Pine Brook mines. Pine Brook broke down its bounds and rushed in torrent into Fairlawn mines, where fifty men were working. All the miners escaped except one boy who was drowned.

WASHINGTON.

The Union League.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. The National Executive Committee of the Union League of America meets at Pittsburg, the 24th inst. It is stated that the meeting will be of unusual interest followed by a Republican demonstration under the auspices of the Central Committee.

MINNESOTA.

Burns Against Time.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 5. It is estimated that 35,000 people witnessed the race yesterday of Burns against time. Burns on the first heat made the following time:—quarter, 0.45; half, 1.31½; three-quarter, 1.48½; mile, 2.20. Second heat, quarter, 35½; half, 1.06½; three-quarters, 1.41½; mile, 2.17. The third heat was a repetition of the second with much confusion caused by efforts of the crowd to get near and see the horse. Time 2164.

TEXAS.

A Fatal Quarrel.

DALLAS, Sept. 5. Ira Harris, receiver, and J. W. Calder, manager of the Dallas and Wichita Railroad, were met in the street yesterday by Messrs. Painter, O'Brenchain and Rosser all ex-directors of that road. Words passed between Harris and Rosser when Harris struck Rosser with his fist and was knocked down by the latter with his cane. Rosser then drew a pistol and began shooting at Calder who was standing aloof, O'Brenchain and Painter also drew weapons and opened fire upon Calder who fell mortally wounded. His last act was to draw a pistol and fire ineffectually. The three ex-directors surrendered themselves. Harris was unhurt. The cause was railroad complications.

NEBRASKA.

The Fire at Omaha.

OMAHA, Sept. 5. The Grand Central hotel was insured for $10,000 on building, and $5,000 on furniture. The loss on the furniture is estimated at $35,000. The Herald building was not burned as previously stated.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

Crowds of people assembled in St. Paul yesterday to see the train which brought President Hayes. A salute was the only formal reception.

J. H. Adams and Cornelius Finley were murdered this week at Davidson camp by Mexican bandits.

The strike of horse car men in New York yesterday greatly impeded travel.

A cargo of sugar valued at $30,000 consigned to Bragleo & Co., of New York, was seized Wednesday for alleged under weighing. The New York Customs Inspector compelled Joseph Pulitzer, formerly Schurz's partner in St Louis journalism, to pay a duty on a silk dress found in his wife's trunk on her arrival from Europe. Pulitzer paid under protest.

At a consultation at Portsmouth, N. H., yesterday of the officers of the U. S. Direct Cable Co. it was decided to lay it further off shore so as to clear the fishing grounds.

Mayor Ely, of New York, has decided to protect the horse car owners, who are discensed, and who continue work, and has so instructed the police. There is no trouble on any other of the horse car lines.

Theodore A. Havemeyer sent $1,000 to Congressman Gibson of New Orleans, now in New York, asking him to distribute it among such as need assistance but will not seek it.

Robinson's circus while at Quincy Ill. donated half its gross receipts at all exhibitions for the fever sufferers, and $740 was realized. The members of Robinson's company also contributed $230.

FOREIGN NEWS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Bark Wrecked.

LONDON, Sept. 5. The bark H. D. Stover, Patten, New York, before reported parted both cables Aug. 4, and went ashore near Back Beach, Port Natal. She will become a total wreck. She was built in Franklin, Maine, in 1861, registered 341 tons, and was owned in Boston.

The Steamboat Horror.

LONDON, Sept. 5. The following is the log of the steamer Rywell Castle:—Master and pilot on the upper bridge and looking on the top gallant forecastle; light airs prevailed; weather hazy; at 7.41, proceeding at half speed down Gallions Reach; when at about the centre of the Reach observed the excursion steamer coming up Basking Reach showing red and masthead lights, when we ported our helm to keep over towards Trip Cock Point. As the vessels neared, observed that the other steamer had ported her helm; immediately afterwards saw that she had starboarded her helm and was trying to cross our bows, showing her green light close under our port bow. Seeing collision inevitable, we stopped four engines and reversed at full speed. The two vessels came into collision, the bow of the Rywell Castle cutting into the other steamer with a dread ful crash. We took immediate measure for saving lives, by hauling up over our bows several passengers, throwing over board ropes ends, life buoys, bold-ladder and several planks, and getting out three boats, at the same time keeping the whistle blowing for assistance, which was rendered by several boats from the shore, and a boat from another steamer. The Princess Alice turned over and sunk under our bows. We succeeded in rescuing a great many passengers and anchored for the night. At log of the Princess Alice had been made 7 p. m. now has the captain survived. The collision will be the subject of a board of inquiry immediately. An accurate estimate of the number drowned is impossible, but the general belief is that it will not fall below 500.

FRANCE.

A Married Priest.

LONDON, Sept. 5. A despatch to the Times from Paris says Herr Rinks, an old Catholic priest at Heidelberg has just married, but the Bavarian ok. Catholics do not accept the recent decision of the Synod for the abolition of celibacy.

The Exposition Awards.

PARIS, Sept. 5. The Journal Des Debats says: At a meeting to-day of the presidents of groups at the Exposition, the Minister of Commerce being present, declared strongly against publishing the list of awards prior to the distribution ceremony, and insisted on the removal of announcements put up by certain exhibitors of their having been accorded premiums.

CANADA.

Courtney and Haulon.

TORONTO, Sept. 5. The hitch between Courtney's friends and the Haulon Club has occurred in the financial negotiations which may lead to the abandonment of the Owasco Lake race, although a settlement is probable.

SOLID BASIS.

There may be 7,000 men and 50,000 women in Maine, who want more paper money, but there is not one in a thousand of them all, who, knowingly will buy boots or shoes with paper soles or stiffenings in them. All who are weary of wasting good money in buying poor or shoddy shoes, may be positively sure of getting their money's worth, and shoes that are made to wear, by purchasing those with our names plainly stamped in the sole of each shoe or labelled upon each pair of boots.

For ladies', misses' and children's fine Kid or Goat goods, buy our SPECIAL SHOES all widths.

For ladies', misses' and children's medium and low priced, stylish shoes, buy our SOLID LEATHER MADE TO WEAR in Kid, Goat, Calf or Grain.

For mens' and boys' kip boots, buy our ALL HAND MADE, our BEST or EXTRA QUALITY.

These are the most reliable and durable goods made in Maine. Find our names upon each pair as a guaranty of their good quality. For sale by retail shoe dealers generally throughout the State.

Miss Dora Wiley eaves Bucksport Saturday for Providence, R. I., where she will sing Monday night, and return Tuesday. She will also sing at Shawmut Avenue Baptist church, Boston, the last two Sabbaths in this month.

The many friends of Mrs. John Q. Lander, daughter of Mr. S. T. Chase of this city, will be pained to learn of her death, after a short illness at her home in Dover, on Wednesday last. The funeral will occur at the residence of Mr. Chase next Saturday morning at half past nine o'clock.

The St. John's Band discoursed some fine music on the corner of Fourth and Union streets last evening. The Band has recently received a valuable addition in Mr. W. J. Phelps of England who is a fine clarionet player. The sweet strains of this instrument were particularly noticeable last evening and were the subject of considerable praise. A large crowd was in attendance.

ORGAN CONCERT. By referring to another column it will be seen that there will be an organ and vocal concert at the Union street church next Tuesday evening at half past seven o'clock. Messrs. F. S. Davenport and O. M. Bass will preside at the organ, Mrs. J. A. Crowell, Mrs. W. F. Shaw, and Messrs. G. S. Farrington and G. S. Silsby will participate in the concert. Tickets can be obtained at F. A. Curtis' on Kenduskeag bridge and at Sullivan and Jones Store on Main street.

BEET SUGAR PROCESS. Mr. D. M. Dunham of this city has made arrangements with O. M. Gennett to exhibit at the Fair in Portland the whole process of making beet sugar: the seed, the green beet, the kiln for drying, the dried beet, the machinery for making the sugar, the sugar in all stages from the juice of the beet to a loaf of white sugar, and last the refuse or cattle feed. This will be a good opportunity for anyone interested in beet raising to become familiar with the whole process and judge whether it is to be a desirable industry for our State.

FIRE IN SANGERVILLE. A correspondent writes: The buildings of James J. Weymouth, situated about one half mile from Sangerville Post Office, on the road leading from Sangerville to Dexter, were consumed by fire Tuesday afternoon about two o'clock. The buildings consisted of a two-story brick house, well finished, one stable, two barns well filled with hay and grain, sheds, &c. Cause of the fire unknown; it originated in the stable, and the stable was connected with the house by he ell and shed. The household furniture was saved, and wagons from the stable; no hogs were burned. Mr. Weymouth estimates his loss at $8000; insured in the Liverpool, London & Globe for $3000.

STATE COLLEGE. A correspondent of the Lewiston Journal writes: "The fall term of the State College commenced Aug. 7th, with the Freshman class numbering thirty-six. The College farm is producing larger crops than ever before, and there are a large number of experiments under way in spite of the hard times. The students in mechanical engineering having completed their course in wise work, and being unable to go on with the forge work on account of room, have gone to work on their own responsibility and erected a building for this purpose. This shop is 42 by 21 ft.; contains a stat onary engine and boiler and eight forges. The lumber for this building was furnished by some of the prominent citizens of Orono; the forges by a fund of the institution, and all the work of erection, &c., has been done by the students. The shop will be ready for occupancy in about a week."

BICYCLES AT THE TRACK. Last evening Mr. Pitman sent three of his machines to the park in a wagon and rode out himself on his bicycle for the purpose of taking his usual exercise and giving his pupils some out door practice. Several members of the Club took the first out door exercise, some riding a mile and others further. One member of the club who was going along swimmingly was some what disconcerted by some of the others crying out for him to get out of the way of a horse, which was being driven on the track, and suddenly turned a summersault over the head of the machine, and landed in the ditch. He was soon on his feet again, however, and mounting the machine started off as though nothing had happened. Mr. Pitman rode five miles, his usual distance, in twenty-one minutes, and for the benefit of a number of spectators who had arrived he again rode around the track twice. The first mile was made in three and one half minutes, and the second in four minutes. As the track is quite uneven in places this was excellent time.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Caucus at Holden—Hon. John Morrison Nominated by Acclamation.

Mr. Editor: The Republicans of the class composed of Corinth, Kenduskeag, Hudson and Alton, assembled in mass convention at Hudson to-day to nominate a candidate for Representative to the next Legislature.

The convention was called to order by B. F. Higgins, Esq., on whose motion Mr. Henry W. Beale was called to the chair, that gentleman accepting the honor in a few well chosen words. The organization was completed by the election of Frank Roberts, Esq., Secretary. Hon. John Morrison, of Corinth, was nominated for Representative by acclamation.

The large body of sturdy Republicans present exhibited a harmony in the proceedings, and an enthusiasm of purpose, that augurs well for our success at the polls next Monday.

The business under the call having been harmoniously disposed of, the convention adjourned. Notwithstanding the lateness of the hour almost every member of the convention remained to hear the eloquent and able address of our townsman, Hon. D. F. Davis, who has just returned from Aroostook County, where he has been doing noble service for honesty and right. He occupied fully one hour in presenting an array of facts and figures that swept every inch of ground occupied by the Greenbackers with their false theories, and held the audience spell-bound to the last minute. The meeting broke up with three cheers for the speaker, three for our nominee, and three more for the whole Republican ticket, which will surely be elected next Monday.

September 4th

The Free-Clads and Politics.

DANGOR, Sept. 5, 1878.

Mr. Editor: I notice the Commercial of yesterday accounts for the comparatively small attendance of delegates to the Reform Club Convention, now in session in this city, on the ground that many of the reformed men are stumping the State for the Greenbackers. The object of printing such a statement must be either to bring reproach upon the cause of temperance and the Iron-Clads, or to make political capital out of the organization. I am a member of an Iron-Clad club, not in this county, and have been for two years and a half, and have attended the last six conventions that have been held in this State, besides many rallies in different parts of the State, and I do not know of one man whom I have met at either of those gatherings as a brother Iron-Clad who is now on the stump for either party. Bro. Torsey, of Winthrop, has spoken a few times in the interest of the Republican party, but his deep interest for the cause of temperance brought him out of the political field to attend this convention. Others have been urged and tempted, with liberal offers to take the stump, but have refused because they loved temperance more than politics, and preferred to come to Bangor to this convention.

The politics of the individual members of this organization are of all stripes. We have among us the most radical Republicans Democrats and Greenbackers, but we do not allow political discussions to arise and mar the harmony which has always characterized us as brothers of the order, nor to take away our interest in the cause of saving lost men. On next Monday we shall vote, each man as he pleases, and we do not thank any newspaper to cast a reproach upon us by making it appear that in a body, or as an organization, we favor any particular political party. We are laboring for the salvation of mankind from the power of strong drink, and do not propose to allow ourselves to be made the dupe of either political organization.

The reasons for the small attendance—not very small either—are many. The September conventions have always been less fully attended than the others. At this time many are at campmeeting, or at some resting-place, or have just returned home from vacation, or are harvesting their grain, or this year in particular, are too poor to come so far. There have been very many temperance campmeetings and rallies this summer, and our boys are not able to attend them all. Politics have had but very little to do with it, and that little is just as much in one party as another.

DELEGATE.

Greenback Caucus.

MR. EDITOR, At a Greenback alias Democratic caucus, holden in Bucksport, Wednesday evening, C. C. Homer was nominated as candidate for Representative to the Legislature, and it is reported by those who took part in the caucus, that the result seemed to come from preconcerted plans, and that near the close Mr. H. D. Hadlock was called upon to address the caucus, which he did: and in his remarks, which were emphatically from the standpoint of an honest hard-money Democrat, he pointed them to the dangerous and disastrous results that must follow to-day, as in the days of our Democratic ancestors. He said the sale of compact has been made, but he, for one, cannot ratify any such proceedings; and announced that he will address the citizens of Bucksport this (Friday) evening, in favor of good and honest money, that his value, and principle that will defend it.

Meeting at Bucksport.

Mr. Editor: Last evening T. R. Simonton, Esq., of Camden, gave a very able, and effective address, at Emery Hall Bucksport, to a large and appreciative audience, vividly portraying the entire fallacy of the Greenback inflation doctrine, and showing conclusively that inflation is not in any sense of the term necessary to the return of prosperity. He appealed to all honest, loyal, and law-abiding people, to heed the warning of the disaster and ruin that must inevitably follow the enactment of such measures.

He also vindicated and refuted the charge of corruption, and untrustworthiness of our eminent Senators and Representatives in Congress, brought by the leaders of this later party in rebellion against the nation's honor. He exhorted the Republicans to stand firm and rally as of yore, and there would be no fear of the Greenbackers. Mr. Simonton spoke for one hour and a half and all seemed to feel that it was good to have been there. Bucksport will be found all right next Monday.

Sept. 5th. B.

Greenback Meeting at Lincoln.

Mr. Editor: For several days past notices have been posted about town that Hon. J. B. Foster, one of the "ablest orators on the stump," would address the citizens of Lincoln, Wednesday evening, Sept. 4th, and that the Lincoln Cornet Band would be in attendance to furnish music for the occasion. All through the day scouts were out drumming up the faithful and J. F. Robinson the "popular" candidate for Register of Probate, (who by the way will be very generally cut in this section,) was actively engaged in giving out invitations to those they hoped to convert to their delusion. At the appointed hour quite a number of people composed principally of ladies and children, evidently drawn thither by the desire to hear the music rather than the speaker, and many Republicans who went out of curiosity, assembled at the place of meeting. A. W. Weatherbee, Esq., introduced Mr. Foster as the speaker of the evening, who prefaced his remarks by saying that he appeared before them as a Republican and in favor of "honest money," then gave his opinion as to what honest money consisted of, to wit: gold silver and greenbacks, but not the redeemable greenbacks as they would not be effected by "corners in gold". He stigmatized national bank notes as dishonest money; inasmuch as it robbed the people of so much interest, were to be replaced by greenbacks. The speaker then opened a tirade against National Banks, bond-holders, and Congressmen generally, but more particularly "Law Powers" against whom he seemed to have a particular spite. He spoke for about an hour in a rambling manner, imparting no information whatever upon the subject he claimed to discuss. From one-half to two-thirds of the male portion of his audience were Republicans who went away perfectly satisfied, not so with the Greenbackers, they were generally disappointed, as they had counted on many conversions. He made absolutely none and many who were wavering before settled back into their old Republican faith, fully convinced of the shallowness of the whole Greenback doctrine.

Senator Hamlin speaks here to-night and we confidently expect much good to result from his speaking. He spoke at Springfield yesterday to a large and enthusiastic audience, a full account of which you will undoubtedly receive.

Meeting at Corinth.

Mr. Editor. A Republican meeting was held at Corinth on Wednesday evening at the church, which was well filled. J. B. Wheeler, Esq., presided on the occasion. Hon. Henry Lord was first introduced and occupied an hour in a well considered address on the financial question and was followed by Hon. E. B. Nealley who spoke for about an hour on the same topic. At the close three hearty cheers were given the speakers.

A Rousing Republican Meeting at Lee.

Mr. Editor—Last evening your correspondent happened to be in the town of Lee, an ancient Democratic stronghold, where we had been informed the once infant of "rag money" had become a bearded man, strong and powerful, and had inflicted upon the Republican party there its death wound. It had been reported to us by Democrats that there were not enough Republican left to form a corporal's guard. Although we ought to have known that men who are acting the most gigantic of all falsehoods may be distrusted, yet we were not expecting so soon as we did, to find them guilty of so glaring an untruth. We were informed that S. W. Mathews and Wm. C. Clark, Esqs., were holding a meeting in one of the churches. We went thither and found great difficulty in obtaining a seat the house was so crowded. Mr. Mathews was speaking when we entered—calmly and logically he dissected the arguments of the "new philosophers" and exposed the weakness of their theories. He was frequently applauded, and it was evident that the house was in full sympathy with him. Mr. Clark followed with an argument of much force. He convinced us of his thorough knowledge with all the pleas of the financial question. He too received hearty applause, and when he closed the audience gave cheer after cheer for honest money, the candidates and the speakers. On the whole we never attended a finer political meeting, nor one where so large an audience manifested a greater sympathy with the cause advocated by the persons addressing them. After the meeting several Republicans told us that Conner would have in Lee the usual Republican majority.

Meeting at Mattawamkeag.

Mr. Editor, Samuel W. Mathews, Esq. of Hampden, and William C. Clark, Esq., of Lincoln, spoke in the Town Hall at Mattawamkeag, the evening of Sept. 4th, to a fine audience, composed of citizens of Winn and neighboring towns. N. A. Averill, Esq., of Mattawamkeag, presided at the meeting. The audience were kept well interested from 7.30 till nearly 11.30, and were treated to a clear exposition of the issues of the day, and of the sophistries of the Greenbackers. Rousing cheers were given at the close for the speakers and for Hon. L. Powers, Robinson and Stratton have been using every conceivable method to get Greenback votes in Mattawamkeag, but there is a large army of Republicans still untainted, while a large number of Democrats (hard-money) are good proof that, though they may be sold, the delivery is not certain by any means.

Meeting at Hampden.

A Republican meeting was held at Nealley's Corner, Hampden, last evening at the church. Col. Walker presided and introduced the speakers, Hons. E. B. Nealley and Henry Lord, who spoke for two hours to a very appreciative audience.

Meeting in the Bagley School House.

The Republican meeting in the Bagley school house last evening was well attended. Mr. Reuben Bagley presided and introduced J. W. Millikan, Esq. and Hon. T. W. Vose as the speakers of the evening. Both gentlemen discussed the financial question in a candid manner and were attentively listened to until the close.

An Enthusiastic Meeting at Exeter.

The citizens of Exeter, ladies and gentlemen, to the number of some four hundred, assembled at the Town House last evening, to listen to a presentation of the political issues, by H. L. Mitchell, Esq. and Gen. John L. Swift. The meeting was called to order by B. R. Lalard, Esq., who called G. S. Hill, Esq., to the chair. For about three hours the audience listened with great interest to the speakers, and the meeting closed with rousing cheers for the speakers and sound finance. The prospect in Exeter is brightening rapidly; several Republicans who would have voted the Greenback ticket two weeks since, now declare that their eyes have been opened and they shall vote the square Republican ticket on Monday next. There are also some old Jacksonian Democrats who have no sympathy with the "new departure."

FROM LINCOLN.

Meeting of the Good Templars.

The District Lodge of the I. O. G. Templars which met with the Lincoln Lodge last Tuesday passed off pleasantly to the delegates from abroad, to the Lincoln Lodge and the citizens of our village. The clouds were so threatening in the early part of the day that only a few Lodges of the County were represented and no public meeting was held in the forenoon as anticipated.

An enjoyable hour was spent in the Academy building where the ladies of Lincoln Lodge and others had prepared a bountiful collation, and the hundred and fifty who sat down to these inviting edibles were in excellent spirits, and thoroughly enjoyed the pleasant sociabilities of the picnic entertainment. At two o'clock a secret session was held in the Lincoln Lodge Hall which continued a couple of hours.

At half past seven a public meeting was held in the Methodist church. The house was well filled with intelligent and attentive audience. Mr. Bunker, of Corinna, the presiding officer was in the chair, and invited Rev. Mr. Bennett to offer prayer. Short speeches were made by Rev. Mr. Aldrich, Rev. Mr. Bennett, C. M. Griffin, Esq., and others of Lincoln, W. I. Wood, Esq., a pleasant speaker from Corinna, and E. W. Starbird, Esq., of Dixmont. All the speeches were to the point and were regarded as being of a high character. Mr. Starbird is an interesting speaker and his historical sketch of the order and its duties were well put and received. The remarks were interspersed with excellent music by the Methodist choir. The meeting closed at ten o'clock with a benediction and all present were unanimous that the first District Lodge held in our village was a success.

"POSING THEIR ISSUES."

Something Less than three hundred persons who style themselves "The Taxpayers" of Bangor—The Cut and Dried Programme Carried out except a Hitch at the Hall.

In accordance with the Reform programme arranged in advance by a select assemblage of patriots in the office of C. P. Brown a few evenings ago, the individuals who claim to embody the tax-payers of Bangor, assembled in caucus at City Hall yesterday afternoon. At 2 o'clock, the hour assigned, but few of the tax-payers had arrived, and at 2.30 o'clock when the meeting was called to order by Alderman Pickard, the attendance was still very meagre. After the formalities of appointing a Chairman and Secretary according to schedule, a motion was made to proceed to ballot for a first candidate for Representative to the Legislature, and a committee to receive, sort and count votes was appointed as follows:

Z. S. Patten, Lyman Tyler, John Lowell, Michael Boyce, and J. H. Grover.

C. P. Brown then moved that the candidate be separately voted for by ballot, which motion was passed, and he then moved that they proceed to ballot for a candidate from the city proper.

J. P. Bass said that as they wanted men that should be both felt and heard in the Legislature, he would present the name of C. P. Brown, as a candidate, as he had done more than any other man in the State towards reducing taxation. The caucus then proceeded to ballot whole resultee as follows:

Whole number votes	196
Necessary for a choice	94
C. P. Brown had	179

and was declared the nominee.

Z. S. Patten then presented the name of Gorham L. Boynton, mentioning in connection with various other good qualities that he was a Democrat of the old school! The ballot resulted as follows:

Whole number votes	186
Necessary for a choice,	91
Gorham L. Boynton had	174

and was declared the nominee.

Paul R. Seavey then presented the name of Amos Pickard as a man well fitted to represent the tax payers, but Mr. Newcomb thought that the suburban districts were entitled to one representative and presented the name of John F. Jordan of the caucus, then proceeded to ballot, and while the committee was counting the votes C. P. Brown was called for. On stepping upon the stage Mr. Brown occupied considerable time in informing the caucus that the nomination was entirely unsought for on his part, and that he should have been better pleased had they taken some other man. He then proceeded to demonstrate that his whole body and soul was in the work of reducing the enormous rate of taxation with which the people were burdened, and he thought this could best be accomplished by electing the Greenback Senators, and ratifying the nominations of the caucus on next Monday.

The committee to count votes, who had been engaged in a lively discussion during the above remarks, to the great disgust of the speaker, who cast several reproachful glances towards that part of the stage, having attended to their duty reported as follows:

Whole number of votes,	193
Necessary for a choice,	98
John F. Jordan had	95
Amos Pickard,	72.
Z. S. Patten,	28

Their being no choice the caucus were proceeding to a second ballot, when Z. S. Patten rushed to the front of the stage and demanded the attention of the voters for a few minutes while he unburdened his mind. The sum and substance of his remarks seemed to be directed to the manner in which the nominations had been cut and dried before hand. For a few minutes great confusion prevailed. Mr. Patten was seen standing on the front of the stage swinging his arms frantically and shouting something about a meeting at which he presided, when the name of Jordan was accepted as a candidate for Representative, but his voice was nearly drowned by the shouts of laughter and applause from the spectators in the gallery. He next proceeded to tell the caucus what he had done for the tax payers association, and that when he asked for their votes as a reward for his valuable services, that they insulted him by insinuating that he did not have brains enough for a Legislator. The principal difficulty seemed to be that at the meeting over which Mr. Patten presided the taxpayers voted for Jordan instead of Patten. He closed his remarks by requesting his friends to vote for Mr. Pickard. The result of the second ballot was as follows:

Whole number of votes,	234
Necessary for a choice,	118
Amos Pickard,	130
John F. Jordan,	104

and Mr. Pickard was declared the nominee.

Mr. Boynton was then called for and for a few minutes he amused the audience while he made one of his characteristic speeches, and closed by telling his hearers what he proposed to do when he took a seat in the Legislature. Mr. Pickard was then sent for and he proceeded to tell the caucus how badly he felt to think that he had been nominated. The taxpayers seem to have been particularly unfortunate in selecting candidates who would have preferred to remain at home. At the close of Mr. Mr. Pickard's remarks the caucus adjourned. As a popular demonstration the affair must have been decidedly unsatisfactory to the projectors.

THE VETERAN BATTALION MUSTER

CLOSING DAY.

RECEPTION OF GOV. CONNOR AND GRAND REVIEW.

FINE EXHIBITION DRILL BY THE JAMESON GUARDS.

A Night in Camp, accidents, etc. etc.

DOVER, Sept. 5, 1878.

Our report yesterday was closed at four o'clock with the conclusion of the sham fight. Immediately thereafter, Department Commander Ham in, and the Russian naval officers,—who expressed much pleasure in the exercises of the day, and who had watched with a lively interest all that pertained to the—to them novel—proceedings of a militia muster, were taken under escort by Post 12 G. A. R., and the Jameson Guards with the Bangor Band, and escorted to the cars, to return homeward.

At five o'clock dress parade was gone through with by the battalion in a highly creditable manner, after which the Jameson Guards afforded much pleasure to the immense crowd, in attendance by giving an exhibition drill, of which it is only necessary to say that it was worthy of the Jamesons, and reflected great credit upon the instructions of Capt. Davis.

This closed the exercises of the day and the immense crowd of 6 000 to 8,000 persons who had been in attention during the day dispersed to their homes.

From seven to eight o'clock the Bangor Band delighted those remaining upon the ground with selections of their choice music, after which a gentleman present afforded much amusement by delivering two "sermons" filled with mirth provoking incidents and witty sayings, and which "brought down the house" with tremendous applause. The soldiers then dispersed to their quarters, but discipline was not arbitrarily strict and much latitude was granted to the men which would hardly have passed muster in actual service. In the tents the men occupied their time in rehearsing the old, old story, but always new when comrades meet, of army life and experiences, and in one tent the members present of the First Heavy Artillery held a pleasant reunion. Social calls were made, complimentary congratulatory and oratorical speeches were delivered, and hospitalities freely dispensed, cold water being, however, the only thing obtainable in the "beverage" line. The "grand rounds" were made, however, with much mirth and jollity and kept up till a late hour. And to add to the quiet of the night in camp, fugitive discharges of small arms in different parts of the camp reinforced at intervals more or less frequent—usually more—by the discharge of a three-pounder charged to the muzzle and silently wheeled up to the tent of some indiscreet seeker after rest who had dared to woo the drowsy god and his comrades had seen fit to go and do likewise. But all things must have an end, and so with fun, and one by one the boys sought their field beds, and sleep covered the land." One mystery of the night will, however, probably never be accounted for, and that is an appearance in camp this morning as if a shower of turkeys' feathers had fallen during the night! recalling to mind

THE STONE-CUTTER'S STORY.

He was strolling over his work, careless from long custom, of the solemn significance of the letters he was cutting in the white marble. The June sun was nearly at the end of the day's journey, sinking slowly to rest upon the bosom of the broad Atlantic, whose waves washed the shores of the little seaport town of Monkton; A stranger handsomely dressed in gray, with large, lustrous brown eyes, came to the fence that was around the yard where the stone-cutter worked, and read the lettering, almost completed, upon the tombstone:—

HIRAM GOLDBY,
Aged 35.

LOST AT SEA, JANUARY, 1860.

The last six was nearly completed. A strange pallor gathered for a moment upon the stranger's face and then he drew a long, deep breath and said

"It not ten years a long time to be cutting letters on a tombstone, friend?"

"Eh, sir?"

The stone-cutter looked, shaded his eyes with his brown hand, as he turned his face to the setting sun.

"That is 1876. It was the grave reply, "and Hiram Goldby has been ten years under the waves."

"Well, sir, that's the question—is he there?"

"Is he there? Your stone tells us he is and has been for ten years."

"Yes sir, so it does—so it does. And yet she has ordered it. She came over a week or so back with a worried look upon her sweet face that I have never seen anything but patient in the ten long years, and she said to me—'You may cut a stone, Davy,' she says, 'and put it up in the churchyard, and if dont want so see it. I'll pay you whatever you choose to ask, Davy' she says, 'but he's not dead, and dont want a tombstone.' 'Lor, mum,' says I 'tho'd a turned up all these years if he was not dead.' But she shook her pretty head, the prettiest I ever seen, sir, and said she KNEW heart never told me that he was dead, Davy, and I'll never believe it till my heart tells me so.'

"His sweetheart?" questioned the stranger.

"His wife, sir,—his loving, faithful wife, that's had poverty, and loneliness and misery, her full share, and might ha' better tered herself."

"How was that?"

"Mr. Miles, sir, the richest shopowner hereabouts, he wanted patiently for seven long years, trying to win her. Then he said that he was free even if Hiram came back."

"Enoch Arden," muttered the stranger.

"What did you say, sir?"

"Nothing, nothing. What answer did the widow make Mr. Miles?"

"If Hiram's dead," said she, "I'm his faithful wife." Maybe you are from the city, sir, and have heard the story of old Pearl?"

"What story is that?"

"Well, sir, it's been told many times, especially in the last year, but you're welcome to what I know of it. There, that S is done, and I'll leave the Scripture text till morning. If you'll come to the gateway and take a seat on some of the stones, I'll tell you, that is if you care to hear it."

"I do care," was the grave reply, "and I want very much to hear the story."

"I'll give you some lunn to the Pearl of Monkton—that's what they call Mrs Goldby here about. It's a matter of thirty-three years back, sir, that there was a wreck on Monkton rocks, that you can see from here sir, now and a few. Cruel rocks they are, and many a wreck they've seen, the more the pity. You see them, sir?"

"I see them."

"Well, sir, that one wreck, thirty-three years ago, there was nothing washed a shore but a bit of a girl-baby three or four years old, with a skin like a lily leaf, and great black eyes. Hiram Goldby found her on the rocks. He was a boy of twelve years, strong and tall, and he carried the child in his arms to his mother. You may see the cottage, sir, the second white one on the side of the hill."

"I see it."

"Well, Hiram took the baby there, and Mrs Goldby was the same as a mother to it—a good woman, God bless her soul—the widow Goldby."

"Is she dead, then?"

"Aye, sir, six years agone. The baby I was telling you of, sir, talked a foreign lingo, and was dressed beautiful in rich clothes, that must have cost a power of money. But never would Hiram or the widow sell them, putting them up carefully in case the child was ever looked for. She was that pretty, sir, and that dainty, that everybody called her Pearl, though she was not like our girls, but kind of the set. I have seen her clench her mite of a hand and strike at it, for she had a bit of a temper in her, though nothing to harm.

"When Hiram made his first voyage, for they were all seafaring men hereabouts, and there was nothing for a lad to do but ship, the Pearl was just a little shed-out lily, scarcely until he came home again. And it was so whenever he went, for they were sweethearts from the first time he nestled her baby face on his breast, when he picked her up from the wreck. She was seventeen when they were married, as near as we could guess; Hiram was a man of twenty-four. She prayed him stay at home then and he stayed a year, but he fretted for the sea, and he went again, thinking, I s'pose, that his wife would get used to it, as all wives hereabouts must do. But she never did—never. It was just pitiable to see her go about, white as a eclipse, when Hiram went away, never looking at the sea without a shudder like a death chill. All through the war it was just awful, for Hiram enlisted on board a man-o'-war, and Pearl was just a shadow, when he came home the last time."

"After the war?"

"Yes, sir, but he made no money of any account, and so he went again, after staying at home a long spell. Well, he never came back. Pleasure no manner of use a telling Pearl he was lost; she'd just shake her pretty head and say 'He'll come back.' Not a mite of mourning would she wear, even after his own mother gave him up and put on black, for, sir, it stands to reason he's dead years ago."

It looks so."

"Of course it does; nobody else doubts it but Mrs. Goldby! Old Mrs. Goldby's last words were,—'I'm going to meet Hiram,' and they say she was. But even then that didn't make Pearl think so. She wore mourning for her who had been the only mother she knowed of, but not weeds. Weeds was for widows, she said, and she wasn't a widow."

"But the stone?"

"Well, sir, I'm coming to that. A year ago, sir, a fine gentleman from France came here hunting for a child lost on the coast. He'd heard of Pearl by happenchances, if there is such, and came here. When he saw the clothes, he just fainted like a woman."

"She was related, then?"

The stranger's voice was hushy, but the sea a r was growing chill.

"Her father, sir?"

"It took her away?"

"He tried to. He told her of a splendid home he had in New York, for he'd followed his wife and child, sir, to the end they had never reached. He was rich and lonely. He begged his child to go, but she would not. 'Hiram will come here for me,' she said, 'and he must find me where he left me.'"

"On what has she lived?"

"Sewing, sir, mostly. The cottage was old Mrs. Goldby's, and bless you, Pearl did no eat much more than a bird, and her dresses cost next to nothing. But there's no denying she was very poor,—very, and yet the grand home and big fortune never tempted her. So here she came on year after year, until April. And she died, sir, and left our Pearl all his fortune and the grand house in New York. But she'll not go, sir, she'll die here, waiting for Hiram, who'll never come."

The stranger lifted his face that had been half hid in his hand and said—

"There was a shipwreck in the Pacific ocean, Davy, twenty and years ago, and one man on y was saved—saved, Davy, by savages, who made him a slave, the worst of life of a the chief's daughter, who was in the sel him. More than that, he gave him choice spices and woods, and sent him aboard the first passing ship. So he sailed or landed in a great city, sold his presents and put the gold in safe keeping. Then he traveled till he reached the seaport town where he was born, and coming there at sunset, heard the story of the life from the lips of a man cutting his tombstone."

Not a word spoke Davy. Standing erect, he seized an immense sledge hammer and with powerful blows from strong, uplifted arms, dashed the stone into fragments. Then, panting with exertion, he held out his brawny hand to the stranger:—a stran-

"I've done no better work in my life, than I've done in the last five minutes, Hiram. Go home man, and make Pearl's heart glad. She don't need it, Hiram—she don't need it. You asked me about the stone. The neighbors drove her to ordering it, twitting her that now she was rich, she grudged the stone to her husband's memory. So she told me to cut it, but says, 'Don't put on dead upon it, Davy—put he's at sea for Hiram's lost, but he'll be found and and come back to me.' She never looked at it, Hiram, never. And there's not an hour, nor hasn't been for ten years, that she hasn't been looking for you to come back. Go to her, man, and the Lord's blessing be upon both of you."

So, grasping the hard, brown hand, Hiram Goldby took the path to the little white cottage where he had been born forty-five years before. The sun had set and the darkness was gathering, but a little gleam of light streamed from the window of his cottage. He drew near softly, and and standing on the seat of the porch, looked over the half curtain into the neat, but poor sitting-room.

It was not the grand house, Pearl's heritage in New York, but Pearl herself was there. A slender woman, with a pale, sweet face, and black hair smoothly braided and gathered into two braids at the back of her shapely head. Her dress was a plain dark one, with white ruffles, cuffs and an apron.

She had been sewing, but her work was put aside, and presently she came to the open window and drew aside the curtain. She did not see the tall figure drawn closely against the wall in the narrow porch, but her dark eyes looked mournfully toward the sea glimmering in the half light.

"Hiram! Hiram!" she whispered, "are you dead, and has your spirit come to take mine where we shall part no more?"

Only the wash of the wave below answered her. Sighing softly, she said—"Is my darling coming? I feel him so near to me, I could almost grasp him."

She stretched out her arms just as two window sill, and a low voice answered her.

"Pearl! Pearl!"

The arms that had so long grasped only empty air, were filled then, as Hiram stood under the low window.

"Do not move, love," she whispered, pressing her soft lips to his. "I always wake when you move."

"But now," he said, "you are already awake. See, Pearl, your trust was heaven-given. It is myself, your fond, true husband, little one, who will never leave you again."

"It is true! You have come!" she cried at last, burst ng into a torrent of happy tears. "I knew you were not dead. You could not be dead and my heart not tell me." It was long before they could think of anything but the happiness of re-union after the many years of separation, but at last, drawing Pearl closer, Hiram whispered—"I walked from J——, love, and am enormously hungry."

And Pearl's merry laugh chased the last shadows from her happy face, and she bustled about he room preparing supper.

"Supper for two!" she cried, gleefully.

The grand house in New York is tenantless by its owners, and Hiram goes to and more, but in the summer time is very happy people come for a quiet month to the little white cottage at Monkton, and there always to listen to Davy's tale of the evening when he was cutting Hiram Goldby's tomb stone and ended by smashing it into atoms

"For," is the invariable ending of the tale, "Pearl was right, and we were wrong, all of us for Hiram Goldby was lost at sea, sure enough, but he was not dead, and he came to her faithful love as she always said he would."

LETTER-CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should follow their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their addr ss at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is more convenient to have the street and number given, and they will be delivered earlier than if the name is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first top supplying the addresses of their routes.

Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails—the down town boxes fifteen and the up town boxes thirty minutes before the closing mails at the office.

He stays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M., and from 7½ to 8½ P. M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A. M.

Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charges will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post-Office Department, (samples of which may be seen in the delivery window) when ordered in lots of not less than 500.

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if not claimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.

The Public are earnestly recommended to procure Stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.

Plain, first class envelopes of above furnished at $2.50 per M thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such Stamp is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars.

Short and illegible names of offices in directing, are reduced at this office.
